

Oct. 20, 2021

The Honorable Kyrsten Sinema
The Honorable Mark Kelly
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senators Sinema and Kelly:

As religious leaders and people of faith in Arizona we believe that we are called to speak up for those who are suffering and for those whose voices are not heard. It is in this spirit that we write in solidarity with those who are hit hardest by the effects of climate change, whether through severe weather events or through worsening air and water quality. We know that we have a moral responsibility to do what it takes to make these communities more climate resilient and to right the wrongs that made them vulnerable in the first place.

As we recover from the pandemic and look towards rebuilding, we must address climate change and seek to correct environmental injustice in our country. We urge you to pass legislation through the budget reconciliation process that achieves 100% renewable, pollution-free electricity by 2035, while also expanding investments in wind and solar power. As religious leaders, we urge you to acknowledge the suffering caused by climate change by enacting big and bold investments in:

- clean, renewable energy to modernize our electric grid
- electric vehicles, charging infrastructure and expanding public transit to electrify transportation and connect communities
- energy efficiency and affordable, energy-efficient housing

It is urgent that you enact legislation that offsets the disproportionate impact of climate change on frontline communities and helps those communities most vulnerable to climate-related weather events become more climate resilient. The budget reconciliation package should direct a significant portion of investments to Black, Indigenous, people of color and low-income communities to offset the unequal burden of pollution they have shouldered. In addressing the climate crisis, any legislation should provide the financial support needed to equip all communities for a major energy transition, so that no one is left behind to suffer further harm and injury.

When faced with a crisis, we are forced to decide whether or not we will hear and answer the cry of those most impacted or whether we would rather preserve the status quo at all costs. Your work to create and negotiate a bold reconciliation package centered on climate and justice is a sign that we are not afraid of change in favor of a better future that includes everyone. We pray for your commitment to reimagining and rebuilding our society in this critical moment in our nation's history.

Sincerely,
Rev. Christine Dance
Unitarian Universalist Congregation of Phoenix
Phoenix

Alberta Farnsworth
DSC United Methodist Women President

Maria Hase
Desert Southwest Conference
United Methodist Women Social Action Coordinator

Rev. Alisa R. Guardiola Gonzalez
First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ)
Tucson

Nancy Jamison
Vice President, Dayspring United Methodist Church
Tempe

Rev. Steve Keplinger
Grace St. Paul's Episcopal Church
Tucson

Sarah King
Former Chair, Earth Care Commission
Arizona Faith Network
Phoenix

Bethany Lambrecht
Dayspring United Methodist Church
Tempe

Rev. Tom Martinez
Desert Palm United Church of Christ
Tempe

The Rev. Kenneth G. Page
Orangewood Presbyterian Church
Phoenix

Rev. Carol Rose
Co-Pastor

Shalom Mennonite Fellowship
Tucson

Joy Lee
Tucson

Rabbi Jeremy Schneider
Temple Kol Ami
Scottsdale

Rev. Susan Valiquette
First Church, United Church of Christ
Phoenix

Elizabeth Vollmer
Tucson

Carla Whitmire
Desert Southwest Conference, United Methodist Women
Phoenix

Kathryn Wilde
Tucson

Dr. Kathleen Williamson
Tucson

Anita M. Zastrow
East District Social Action Coordinator
Desert Southwest Conference, United Methodist Women
Phoenix

Rev. Patty Willis
Granite Peak Unitarian Universalist Congregation
Prescott

Rev. Katie Sexton-Wood
Executive Director
Arizona Faith Network
Phoenix